WITH PACIFIC FLEET

GLENDALE BOY EN ROUTE TO PACIFIC COAST THROUGH PANAMA CANAL

Lieut. J. Gerald Farrell, U. S. N., who recently spent a few days at the home of his mother, Mrs. C. R. Farrell, 207 1/2 Hawthorne street, but was immediately summoned to return to New York for duty has wired his family here that he started from Newport News last Saturday with the big fleet that is coming to make its home in Pacific waters. Mrs. Farrell and family are anxiously awaiting the arrival of the fleet and of Lieut. Farrell and are hoping to continue the visit with him that was cut short by his summons east. Lieut. Farrell had just returned from overseas where he has been for the past two years. He is a graduate of Annapolis and has been in service in foreign waters ever since his graduation.

MOVING BACK TO GLENDALE

Chas. F. Benner and wife, their son, Harold F., and daughter, Violet, will move out to Glendale Heights, on Camulos avenue, next week, moving from there to Los Angeles in 1916. Harold is assistant to the Scout Executive of Boy Scouts in Los Angeles, having worked up to that position from the ranks. Seven years ago, when just a lad, he organized the first Boy Scout troop in Southern California, he says, at the Tropic School, now the Cerritos Avenue School. J. G. Goodsel, G. U. H. S. athlete and tennis champion, was the first Scout Master.

STREET WORK APPRECIATION

A well-posted Glendale citizen who keeps close tab on Los Angeles affairs, remarked that had Glendale been a part of Los Angeles during the past five years it would not have been able to boast its fine street improvements, because the bigger city has been wholly unable to keep up with demands and for a long time was two years behind in the execution of improvements ordered. Here, beyond the legal red tape of passing ordinances, posting notices of publication, advertising for bids, etc., there is nothing to hold back such work when once it has been decided upon by property owners and city trustees. In due time it becomes a fact. Were we a part of Los Angeles it would be a long time coming. Especially would this be true with regard to street repair for which Glendale now has its own equipment that is kept pretty constantly busy.

BELATED RAINBOW LIEUTENANT

Lieut. H. H. Powers, son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. McGee of 614 E. Broadway, arrived from France Monday night to join his wife who has been with them in his absence. He went over with the Rainbow Division and was in service about twenty-two months. He was detached from the Rainbows and put with a machine gun corps which accounts for the delay in his return. He saw plenty of fighting and went through three offensives. His home is in Virginia and he has made no civilian plans as yet.

SOME COMPARISONS

LIGHT ON THE PER CAPITA IN- DEBTEDNESS IN LOS ANGE- LES AND IN GLENDALE

Comparisons are not always odious—sometimes they are interesting. Some of the comparisons of figures on file at the City Hall when compared with data of a similar nature from Los Angeles are in the interesting class. For instance, the municipal bonded indebtedness of this city as shown by its records is $498,000, which, when divided among a population of 12,000, would make a per capita indebtedness of approximately $41. But, as a matter of fact, this indebtedness for the most part is taking care of itself and does not affect the citizens except favorably because it represents value which the city will sometime own free and clear of indebtedness. In other words, the bulk of the bonded indebtedness is for public utilities that yield incomes which pay the interest on the debt and which retire 5 per cent. of the principal every year. It therefore becomes apparent that the city is paying interest on only $72,625 of this bonded indebtedness and the real per capita indebtedness which weighs upon the taxpayer is only approximately $6 instead of $41. Added to this is a bonded indebtedness for schools of about $20 per capita

WAR SCOUT RETURNS

CORPORAL DUDLEY NEWCOMB THE GUEST OF HIS SISTER, MRS. L. T. ROWLEY

Mrs. L. T. Rowley, of 305 North Central avenue, is joyfully entertaining her brother, Corporal Dudley Newcomb, who returned not so very long ago from strenuous service in France covering fourteen months in which he was granted only two days' furlough.

He entered the service in the 91st Division and was sent to Camp Lewis. An order to have his tonsils removed sent him to the hospital and an outbreak of scarlet fever detained him there in quarantine when part of the division was sent across. In the reorganization he volunteered for a replacement division and was sent overseas and to the fighting zone after only about four weeks' drill. He went with the 32d Division made up of Michigan and Wisconsin National Guards and as they were used for shock troops they were in action all the time except for brief periods of rest or when members were recuperating from wounds.

Their first fighting was in the Oureque and Vesle offensive. When asked how their baptism in war affected them individually he admitted that no man could escape the sense of fear, but said the first time they went over was the easiest because they had been under shell fire for five hours and were crazy to get into action. He received his first promotion to Company Runner in Alsace and after the first engagement was made Corporal.

As a scout he had hazardous missions to carry out in blazing the way for troops to follow. He naturally had some exceedingly narrow escapes. Once a shell burst in their midst when he and five other scouts were grouped together. Several of the party were killed. He lost most of his equipment and his uniform was partially torn from him, but miraculously he was saved from serious injury and he returns in splendid physical condition, better, indeed, than when he left.

Like others whose opinions have been sought he attributes American success in a considerable degree to the American soldiers' initiative which was at once a virtue and a defect as it made the men less subject to discipline. He cited an instance where two companies which had been left for reserves, without orders, and on their own responsibility went out and captured the town of Cierges. According to regulations the lieutenant should have been court-martialed but instead he was made a captain and sent back to the United States to drill officers.

Mr. Newcomb, as he prefers to be called now that he is a civilian, will probably take up work in the oil fields at Taft where he has relatives who are anxious he should join them.

BELIEVES IN SUPPORTING HOME PRODUCTS

J. A. Gysin, who recently located as a sign painter at 312 East Broadway, after 30 years spent in the same line of work in Trinidad, Colo., is not only an expert at ordinary sign work, but he is an artist in color printing with the camel's hair brush. Fancy show-cards and calendars seem to be included in his program of work. Mr. Gysin has adopted Glendale as his home whole heartedly and is ready to fight annexation to Los Angeles with all his ability. He is a firm believer in buying at home and every dollar of his money is so spent. And he shows his faith by his works in heartily supporting the home paper and using liberally of printers' ink.

"WONDERFUL LITTLE PAPER"

A tribute to the value of the Glendale Evening News comes spontaneously from Mrs. John Hyde Braly, whose small orchard of apricot trees this year yielded much more fruit than she could take care of. She therefore advertised it for sale in the columns of this paper and reports that she received not less than twenty-five applications for it and could have sold many times the amount she had to spare. In speaking of it as an advertising medium she declared: "It is the most wonderful little paper I ever saw."

WOULD BE A CALAMITY

Mr. Kimlin, manager of the Glendale Sanitarium, appears to think the annexation of Glendale to Los Angeles would spell calamity for the town. He says he has yet to hear of any good reason to make such a change and that nearly all the people with whom he has come in contact think as he does.

PRESIDENT STILL PLANS TOUR

SENATE FOREIGN RELATIONS COMMITTEE RUSHES TREATY READING TO CLEAR WAY FOR DEBATE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, July 23.—President Wilson will conclude a series of conferences with Republican Senators on the peace treaty before he starts on a tour of the United States. It will take two weeks to conclude the conferences. Secretary Tumulty today denied that the President is considering the abandonment of his plans for the tour. Senators Page, Sterling, McLean and Newberry saw the President today.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee today rushed through the reading of the treaty in order to clear the way for opening the hearings, particularly the examination of Secretary of State Lansing.

The Senate devoted but little time to debate on the league, Senator McKellar of Tennessee being the only speaker.

SPOKANE ENVELOPED IN SMOKE

NEW FOREST FIRES STARTING AND OLD ONES STILL BURNING—SHORTAGE OF FIRE FIGHTERS SERIOUS

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

SPOKANE, July 23.—Half a dozen new forest fires were reported today and old fires are still burning in Washington, Idaho and Montana. Spokane is enveloped in clouds of smoke. The reports show that spreading flames are endangering Thompson Falls, and St. Regis, Montana. Desperate fights are in progress to save Newport, Washington, and Enaville, Kellogg, Mullen, and Burke, Montana, from fire. The shortage of fire fighters is serious.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Secretary Lane of the Interior Department has asked Congress to permit him to use funds of his department totaling half a million to fight the fires in the northwest.

WARTIME PROHIBITION CONSTITUTIONAL

JUDGE CHATFIELD OF THE UNITED STATES COURTS SO RULES IN DECIDING CONNECTICUT CASE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

NEW YORK, July 23.—United States Judge Chatfield, in deciding a test case brought in Connecticut, has ruled that wartime prohibition is constitutional.

ORDER BEGIN RESTORED IN WASHINGTON

WITH MAJOR GENERAL HAAN IN COMMAND SITUATION IS BETTER THAN SINCE SATURDAY

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, July 23.—The race riot situation is better than at any time since Saturday as a result of the military measures adopted last night. Major General Haan who has just returned from France, commanded the city during the night placing guards at all important points, and having two armed soldiers accompany every policeman on his beat. No mobs were permitted to form. The major general, accompanied by his staff, inspected the outposts during the night just as he would on a battle front and received telephonic reports from the officers commanding the guards. One member of the Home Guard was shot by a negro whom he was attempting to disarm. It was the only casualty.

TO PUBLISH DOCUMENTS SEIZED

MEXICAN GOVERNMENT SAYS IT WILL MAKE PUBLIC CORRESPONDENCE SEIZED IN VILLA-ANGELES RAID

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

MEXICO CITY, July 23.—The government has announced today that it will publish the correspondence seized in the recent Villa-Angeles raid at Juarez. The correspondence includes an alleged communication from former Governor Hunt of Arizona to Villa intimating that Senator Fall and other Americans wished to visit Villa somewhere in Chihuahua to discuss aiding him in his campaign against Carranza.

FAMOUS NEGRO MINSTREL DEAD

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

SAN DIEGO, July 23.—George Primrose, for fifty years famous as a negro minstrel and the originator of the soft shoe dancing, died here today at the age of seventy. For a long period he was associated with West in an organization known as the Primrose & West Minstrels.

CLAIMED BANKRUPTCY THREATENS CALIFORNIA

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

It is now claimed the State of California faces a deficit of five million dollars, owing to extravagant appropriations by the last legislature. The cost of government has increased 213 per cent. in the last five years.

NOW ORGANIZED

ANTI-ANNEXATION ASSOCIATION OF GLENDALE NOW IN FULL FORCE

At the High School building Tuesday evening a permanent organization was formed by those citizens of Glendale who are determined to preserve the complete independence of our beautiful little city and fight strenuously every attempt to merge its identity with our big neighbor on the south. The temporary chairman, Albert D. Pearce, called the meeting to order and W. C. Wattles acted as secretary. The first order of business was the reading of the By-laws, which had been prepared by a committee appointed for that purpose at the meeting of last Thursday evening. After the reading a motion was made and seconded that they be adopted as read. This opened the way for a discussion of the different articles. There seemed to be no difference of opinion on any of these but a point was made that none of them defined who should be members of this Association. After considerable discussion, all in a spirit of perfect amity, it was ordered that all legal voters of the city of Glendale and all residents or persons having business interests in the city, who believe in preserving our sovereignty and independence, are eligible to membership in this Association. With this addition or amendment, the By-laws were adopted by unanimous vote. Then came the election of permanent officers to serve for one year, as provided in By-laws. There were no contests, just one nomination being made for each office. The temporary chairman, Albert D. Pearce, was elected as permanent chairman, A. T. Cowan as vice-chairman, Capt. D. Ripley Jackson as secretary, and Roy L. Kent as treasurer. Generous applause was given each nomination and election. Pivotal talks were made by Judge Lowe, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Braly, W. B. Kirk, ex-Mayor O. A. Lane, Herman Paine, W. C. Wattles and Elder Munson. In response to a statement from C. L. Chandler that we ought to know just what we are fighting for, whether there really is a definite movement on foot for the annexing of Glendale to Los Angeles, or merely vague talk to that effect, the positive reply was made that there is such a movement on foot; that recently a meeting was held in the office of Calvin Whiting of people favorable to annexation at which was present the secretary of the Los Angeles Annexation and Development Commission; that annexation propaganda is in evidence and boldly pushed on our streets every day. Mr. Braly said he had as yet been given no valid reason why annexation to the larger city would be of advantage to us but he did know of many reasons why it would be detrimental.

NOW FOR REAL CANTALOUPE

The Imperial Valley cantaloupes have now given way to the home-grown varieties and one can begin to really enjoy this delicious fruit if it can be so called. The Imperial Valley product is all of the same variety and the melons are pulled too green to be really good. In the vicinity of Glendale are grown real cantaloupes of many varieties, the most popular being the Paul Rose, the Tip-top, the Pineapple and the Rocky Ford. The Casaba comes in a little later and by many is preferred to the cantaloupe, while its offspring, the Honeydew, which is a cross of the Casaba and Paul Rose cantaloupe, is rapidly gaining in favor.

"STAY BY OURSELVES"

Mr. and Mrs. John Hyde Braly were among those who attended and followed with deep interest the proceedings of the Anti-Annexation Association of Glendale which met Tuesday evening to perfect its organization. Both are strongly opposed to union with the big city and both believe in a campaign of opposition, in order to create a public sentiment against it. Said Mrs. Braly: "I thought from what I read in the Los Angeles papers that the people here had decided in favor of it, and so, although I do not believe in annexation, I concluded not to oppose the will of the majority. Had it not been for the publicity given to the opposition by the Evening News I should have had an entirely erroneous idea of public sentiment. If we should annex it would increase our taxes terribly. You know they are not so philanthropic in Los Angeles that they are striving to do this for us. The benefit is for themselves. Mr. Braly feels just as I do that we would better stay by ourselves. We own our own public utilities and we are doing well enough."

SHALL WE BE 'TAKEN IN'?

A. G. LINDLEY GIVES FACTS TO PROVE IT WOULD INDEED BE A "TAKE-IN"

July 22, 1919.

Editor Glendale Evening News:— Having been a citizen and property owner in Glendale for about five years I am vitally interested in the welfare of our beautiful little city, and have just naturally become a "booster."

Many of the finest people on earth live in Glendale, and it has been demonstrated times without number that the large majority of our people stand right on all moral issues when a question is up for decision; and I for one desire that we shall not surrender our rights as an independent municipality to continue to settle all such questions for ourselves, and not allow ourselves to become an infinitesimal part of a large city and no longer be able to say "our soul is our own."

I would like to mention a few things that have come to my knowledge that pertain to the question of "annexation to Los Angeles." By being the architect of the new Community Church at Owensmouth, which is about to be erected, I have become acquainted with many of the most prominent citizens of that place; and knowing that they had been "annexed" I was anxious to learn how well satisfied they were with their bargain. In answer to my questions I received the following information: That before annexation the representatives of Los Angeles made numerous alluring promises, not one of which was kept after the annexation took place. That they have had to "fight" for every consideration they have received and for every public service they have secured. That their taxes are far in excess of what they were before annexation. While they were an independent community they had many beautiful

THE SCHOOL BOND ELECTION

Members of the Advisory Committee, which is working on behalf of the school bond issue to be voted upon tomorrow, are urging every person interested in the welfare of the schools to come out and vote, and reminding them that there are three polling places, the Central Avenue School for the northern portion of the city, the Intermediate School for the central section of the city, and Acacia Avenue School for the southern portion. There is telephone connection with each of these schools. Members of the committee will be in attendance and any voter who wishes transportation to the polls can call up the polling place and arrange for an auto to call. Every reasonable effort will be made to make it easy for voters to visit the polls, which will be open from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m.

UNDERGOES SERIOUS OPERATION

Miss Marian Springer of 534 Oak St. was operated on at Clara Barton Hospital in Los Angeles Tuesday for abdominal trouble, the nature of which could not be determined beforehand. Some dangerous adhesions were found and the appendix was badly affected, so was removed. The patient is getting along nicely and it is confidently expected that the spinal curvature, which resulted from the abdominal ailments, or rather to the body's instinctive efforts to relieve the pain induced by them, will yield readily to treatment.

LEAVE ISLAND HOME

FAR NORTH CANNOT COMPARE WITH BEAUTIFUL GLENDALE AS HEALTH RESORT

C. F. Ireland and wife are new residents of Glendale having bought the property at 339 West Colorado. They lived for a number of years on Vashon Island, on Puget Sound, where Mr. Ireland owned a 4-acre tract with a frontage of 700 feet on the beach. This island is 14 miles long and lies about half way between Seattle and Tacoma, so is practically seven miles from each, with ferry and boat service to and from both cities. It is a resort and has about 3500 inhabitants. Mrs. Ireland is a sufferer from heart trouble and while stopping a few weeks with a son in Paso Robles on the way down here came near dying. Improvement began with her arrival in Glendale and she is now able to walk five blocks with little fatigue. Mr. Ireland thinks Glendale with its pure air, cool sea breezes and beautiful homes, an ideal place to live.

GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, WEDNESDAY, JULY 23, 1919

AN ATTITUDE TOWARD LABOR

In addressing a group of large employers of labor in New York City a few weeks ago, Mr. Frank Vanderlip stated that before the next five years were passed the struggle between capital and labor would pass through the critical stage. Whether this struggle is to become violence or whether it is to be settled by peaceful methods will depend on the methods adopted by the employers. He advised his hearers both to do everything in their power to satisfy the legitimate demands of labor and to keep it employed. He further added that during these critical years all plants should be kept going whether they make a profit or operate at a slight loss.

Wall Street considered Vanderlip's forecast to be decidedly pessimistic for the future of business and the market took a 6-point drop.

The war has undoubtedly intensified the problems of the industrial situation. The change which has taken place during the war in the status of labor is probably as sweeping as that which took place through a generation in the Industrial Revolution in England.

The war swept the ablest of the laboring classes out of the factory into the army and trained them intensively in the deadliest methods of killing which science could evolve. It hammered into them a tremendous appreciation of the value of obedience and discipline. They know now more than ever before the tremendous power there is in organization.

Their duty done, many of them have come back to find that the fruits of liberty are still as non-existent for them as before and that the rising cost of living has outstripped the advance in wages and that it is harder than before to make ends meet.

To those of foreign descent the agent of the red flag comes with a plausible tale. He points to what their friends and relatives have gained by violence under the red flag in Russia and Hungary. He tells them the red flag is their friend in America, too. When one recalls that it was frequently the International Socialist Organization, of which the red flag is the emblem, who furnished the peasants with tools and farming implements at a low figure, and which operated the small co-operative stores where they purchased the meager necessities of life, it is possible to understand why the propagandist of the bomb and the mob is given a more cordial reception than we would have thought possible.

Fortunately in America there are still some of us who do not believe that there is room enough for the red flag to fly above or alongside the Stars and Stripes.

We may suppress free speech, deport the ringleaders of mobs, call out the militia, and meet violence with violence, but such measures will hardly do more than temporarily improve conditions. In the end every contest of force has found the balance to lie on the side of the proletariat.

Metaphorically speaking, we cannot forever keep the dam from breaking by merely repairing the leaks or by building it higher, but we must drain off the back-water.

Labor's demands must be more fully satisfied in this country. When they are given a proportionate stake in the profits of industry, whether through stock-holding or profit-sharing devices; when they are taken into account on the betterment of the hours and the conditions of labor, there will be no need to worry about the Bolshevik and the Anarchist getting a hearing from American Labor.—H. A. N. in Wroe's Writings.

YOU CAN'T OVERWORK YOUR BRAIN

Don't be afraid of thinking too much. You can't. "The more the mind does," said William James, "the more it can do." A great doctor—Dr. Boris Sidis—recently said: "In all my practice as a physician dealing with nervous and mental diseases, I can say without hesitation that I have not met a single case of nervous or mental trouble caused by too much thinking or overstudy. What produces mental trouble is worry—emotional excitement—lack of interest in one's work."

So, don't be afraid. Think. Study. Plan. Train your mental powers. You cannot overwork the brain as long as you allow it time to recuperate.

It is worry that destroys the brain—worry and fear and bad feelings and mental idleness.—Marketing.

Mrs. Braly confessed that she was entirely indifferent in the matter until she had heard and read so many convincing arguments as to why we should maintain our present independence and control of our own affairs. Mr. Wattle's deprecated an open campaign against annexation until a petition calling for same should be circulated, but advised continual praise of Glendale as the finest little city in the world and treating as preposterous even the mentioning of such a thing as annexation to any other city. O. A. Lane advised an open fight and constant preparedness so we could be ready at any time a campaign for annexation should be launched. Mr. Paine said his company operated two factories in Los Angeles and one in Glendale; that licenses and business red tape really hampered operations in the big city while Glendale was free from such annoyances. Other speakers dwelt upon the necessity of continuing in our present state of independence that we may preserve our splendid water and light system, our street upkeep and all other civic improvements. No compensating advantages could be discerned to repay us for the surrender of our rights as an independent municipality. After adjournment those present signed the By-laws as charter members of the Association. These By-laws are as follows:

By-Laws of the Anti-Annexation Association of Glendale

ARTICLE 1
Name
This organization shall be known as the Anti-Annexation Association of Glendale.

ARTICLE 2
Purpose
The purpose for which this association is formed is to resist by all lawful means every attempt to take from us, by annexation to Los Angeles or otherwise, our sovereignty and municipal independence.

ARTICLE 3
Officers
The Officers of this Association shall be a Chairman whose duty it shall be to preside at the meetings of this Association;

A Vice-Chairman whose duty it shall be to preside during the absence of the Chairman;

A Secretary whose duty it shall be to keep a correct record of the proceedings of the meetings of this Association;

A Treasurer whose duty it shall be to safely keep and properly disburse the funds of this Association.

ARTICLE 4
Committees
There shall be appointed by the Chairman a Committee on Statistics, said committee to consist of five members whose duty it shall be to gather and compile all data deemed essential for the purpose of this Association.

A Committee of Five on Publicity whose duty it shall be to keep constantly before the public all facts relative to the undesirability and disadvantages of annexation.

A Committee of Five on Finances whose duty it shall be to devise ways and means for raising such sums of money as may be deemed necessary for the use of this Association.

ARTICLE 5
Terms of Office
The Elective Officers of this Association and all members of committees appointed by the Chairman shall serve for one year from the date of their election, or appointment, and until their successors are qualified.

ARTICLE 6
The Elective Officers and the members of the Statistic, Publicity and Finance Committees, shall constitute an Executive Board who shall have general supervision over the affairs of this Association.

Any member of the Executive Board shall be qualified to perform the duties of the Chairman, Vice-Chairman or Secretary during their absence.

Mrs. C. E. Knox of 107 South Isabel street has returned from a pleasant three weeks' outing at Long Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Meeker of East Colorado street and family have gone to San Diego to spend a month at Coronado.

Mrs. Grace Harrison of South Jackson street, her mother, Mrs. Verdoort, and her two children, are at Long Beach for a stay of a week or two.

John M. Wood of 610 S. Verdugo Road, is critically ill at the California Hospital, Los Angeles, having undergone a serious operation on Saturday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Berg of 1731 Gardena avenue have moved to Los Angeles to a new home they have in the New Vermont Square at Vernon and Gramercy avenues.

Mrs. Lyda M. Border of 217 North Louise street returned Monday from a week-end trip to Long Beach to visit her sister, Mrs. Peterson, who has engaged quarters there for the summer on Cedar street.

Mrs. Hamilton Swan and her daughter, Jean, of Topeka, Kansas, will arrive Wednesday and will be guests for a few days of Mrs. Mary E. Shropshire of 145 South Everett street before going to Los Angeles to visit other friends.

Miss Dorothy Willitt, who has been visiting her aunt, Miss Tennie Matthews, at the Pearl Apartments, returns today (Wednesday) to her home in San Francisco. She is a student at the University of California in Berkeley.

Mrs. Anderson of 107 South Isabel street, when asked about crops on her husband's Palo Verde ranch in Riverside county, says he has a banner crop of cotton from which he hopes to realize good returns in spite of the disparity between the price of cotton and of the milled fabrics.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Sonntag and family of 912 East California avenue will move Saturday to their new home at 119 South Glendale avenue, formerly the residence of G. B. Woodberry. The Woodberrys are moving to 611 East Broadway where they have an apartment in the Richardson house.

Little Edmond Glidden of San Diego arrived Tuesday and is spending his school vacation with his grandmother, Mrs. Frank England, of 120 West Burnett street. Miss Rosalie England is about to enjoy a two weeks' vacation. She will go to San Diego for a few days and on returning from there will go with a party of Los Angeles friends to Catalina.

Mrs. Hugh Showalter of 701 Orange Grove avenue is expected home the first of next week. She left three weeks ago to visit her father and brother in Portland, Oregon. She and Mr. Showalter lived at Salem, Oregon, for several years and have quite a circle of friends there. He says no nicer climate can be found anywhere in June, July and August, but that the other nine months are "fierce."

Glendale people gazed skyward Tuesday afternoon as a huge government airplane soared over the city. The plane was from DeMille Field, one of three being used in a moving picture by a Hollywood film company, and was driven by Lieut. Locklear, a famous aviator from overseas, with Miss Francella Billington, noted film star, and a Glendale girl, as his passenger. Lieut. Locklear and Miss Billington were on a pleasure flight over Glendale.

Mrs. J. T. Crampton of 213 East Chestnut, reports that life in the Crampton home is quite uneventful since her daughter went to Kansas to serve as bridesmaid at the big wedding of one of her chums. Letters from that young lady indicate that her many friends are entertaining her royally and that she is having a delightful time in spite of the heat which is intense there at times. From present indications she will carry out her original intent to remain until the Christmas holidays.

Business men's lunch at noon and table d'hote dinner at 6 will be features of the new "White Inn," to open soon at 637 E. Broadway. 272t2*

NOTICE TO HOUSEWIVES

At the Red Cross Shop on Brand Boulevard, the building formerly occupied by the telephone company, are a lot of clean wide-mouthed bottles suitable for ketchup and preserves which will be sold for a very low price and of which women who are putting up fruit and condiments will probably be glad to avail themselves.

Watch for the opening of the White Inn, where the Jewel City Cafe was formerly located. 272t2*

tiful electroliters with five lights on each, lining their principal streets and extending for miles along their highways; but these were immediately shut off when they annexed to Los Angeles, though after a strong protest on their part the city consented to let them have the top lamp lighted on a few of them during certain hours. That the beautiful shrubs, trees and flowers along their principal thoroughfare have been almost entirely neglected and are in a dying condition. That while they were provided the aqueduct water for irrigation, they were required to vote a large bond issue to pay for furnishing same; and to assume a portion of the bonded indebtedness of Los Angeles. There were many other "grievances" told to me; but one of the most pertinent things was their advice to Glendale, to "keep out of Los Angeles." They are going to pay a premium of nearly $1000.00 in added cost of their church building for being forced to conform to the building code of Los Angeles, just as though they were building in the midst of the city. This is an item that would run up into the thousands in Glendale, and would affect every building erected here if we were to be taken into Los Angeles. "Taken in" I think is the correct term to use. Let's "let well-enough alone" and stay out.

ARTHUR G. LINDLEY,
(Need I Say) "Anti-Annexationist."

PROVISION FOR POOR AND NEEDY SICK

The Henry-Brown Co., corner Wilson avenue and Isabel street who announce themselves in a position to furnish pure electrified drinking water during the time the city water is shut off are anxious that no hardship be worked upon the poor and needy sick during this period of no drinking water, and with this philanthropic spirit predominating offer to furnish free of charge electrified water to persons who will call for same with their own containers between the hours of 5 and 6 p. m. and with an order from the City Clerk or City Manager, stating that such applicants are worthy of free service.

MRS. JONES' EXAMPLE

Mrs. Delos Jones of 117 South Jackson street has so far recuperated from the operation she underwent several months ago that she considers herself almost as good as new, though she has not been able to do the gardening for which she has been famous, but her fine example had not been lost upon the family. When the supply of vegetables began to fail a family council was held and father and the girls decided they would try their luck as agriculturists. The crops were sown and are now in full glory and productiveness. Two rows of Kentucky Wonder beans have lived up to the promise of their name and besides supplying the family table have yielded 70 pounds which were marketed at 10c per pound. Sweet potatoes are thriving, corn is coming on and every prospect pleases in the well-cultivated front yard of the Jones family.

GLENDAL SANITARIUM NOTES

Miss Pierce and her sister, Mrs. Briggs, who for several years have occupied Rooms 8 and 9 at the Sanitarium, were visited last week by their nephew, Mr. Siddell, who came from Grand Rapids to see them.

Dr. Julia A. White is enjoying a vacation at San Diego. During her absence Dr. Margaret Banta is assisting with the work in the Medical Department.

Miss Ada Somerset, principal of the Intermediate Parish School of the Church, underwent a serious operation a few days ago, but is doing nicely.

Miss Zoe Royce, daughter of Dr. Royce, who went North to Mountain View several weeks ago and later to Santa Monica, is now employed at the Sanitarium.

MAJOR BLAKE IN L. A.

Major P. J. Blake, who recently returned from overseas and visited his friends in Tujunga, is now stationed at the Quartermaster's Depot in Los Angeles, having been put on the "unable to spare" list by the government. He is therefore not likely to get out of service very soon, but his friends are very glad to have him returned to Southern California. He was promoted from Captain to Major about six months ago.

LIBRARY RESTORATION

The cornices on the City Library which for some time on account of their crumbling condition have looked as though they had been chewed off are being restored by Charles Kent & Son, the contractors. The cement work lower down was repaired some time ago. Feldspar in the sand with which the cement was mixed was said to have been the cause of the crumbling there and in the High School building as feldspar disintegrates under the action of the weather. A great many buildings in California suffered from the same cause.

RED CROSS REVENUE

The home service department of the Glendale Red Cross Chapter is realizing quite an income from the leasing of the Red Cross truck for one service or another. L. T. Rowley has recently collected $55 on this account and $10 or $15 more is coming from that source. The Red Cross Shop is also returning an excellent income in spite of the fact that summer is the dull time for trade.

STEP SOFTLY, DON'T SMOKE AND DON'T FALL OUT OF BED

By W. R. HARGRAVES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
NEW YORK, July 23.—"The British never break a promise." This statement by Commander G. H. Scott, of the British Dirigible R-34, explained my visit to the interior of the giant airship during her stay at Mineola. Only two male civilians boarded the ship for inspection and my permission to do so was granted as the result of a promise made on the first day of her arrival.

Thus it is possible for the United Press to give the first details of the living and working accommodations on the aircraft as seen through a landsman's eyes.

In spite of what may appear to be hardships and discomforts, perils and privations there were none of the thirty members of the crew who failed to express the same admiration for her that is felt by those who have become accustomed to travel on certain steamships.

"Of course the quarters are rather cramped and the conditions under which we live are unusual," said Lieut. R. D. Durrant, the radio operator, "but it is a splendid thing to feel that one is part of a new transportation development—and then, too, it is our duty to our country to further her interests."

This is the spirit that kept the officers and crew cheerful during their 108-hour trip westward, when weather conditions of unprecedented violence and atmospheric changes of unusual variety made life on the dirigible anything but rosy.

One of the greatest drawbacks to life on the R-34, perhaps, is the lack of space in which to exercise. Although there is a "board walk" 600 feet long running the length of the ship along its keel, this is only 9 inches wide and as I walked it, catlike, I could not help wondering what might happen if some of the crew took an overdose of the rum ration allowed all members of the British navy, on sea or in air, and tried to walk it off.

Before boarding the ship, which was constantly in motion through the action of the wind, although held down by hundreds of men, my shoes, hat and all matches were taken from me. This was to prevent the danger of creating sparks through friction from the nails in shoes. The removal of my hat was no doubt to prevent me dashing after it should it be blown off. A step over the side of the 9-inch walk would land one on the thin linen fabric which covers the aluminum frame, thence through it into the thin air below.

The dirigible is about 640 feet long and is cigar shaped. The framework is of massive aluminum girders welded together similar to the structural frame of a steel skyscraper. This frame is covered with prepared linen, like that used on airplanes, and within the body thus formed are the sixteen "gas" bags, sleeping quarters, petrol tanks, water ballast and drinking water. The navigating quarters and engines are in the gondolas which hang below.

The petrol tanks which supply fuel to the engines by gravity flow, are located beside the narrow walk and are held by clutches like ice tongs, which can be quickly opened to drop the tanks overboard if necessary.

On either side of the narrow walk are hung fine-spun hammocks, strung from cross bars of the aluminum frame. If one of the air-gobs should become restless in sleep and roll out, he would fall through the fabric which encases the frame, and make a swift descent to land or sea. Tied to each hammock is a deflated rubber life preserver and a silken parachute. In case of a great emergency, as fire, or imminent destruction through other causes, the life belt is inflated and the parachute hooked to a ring in a rope belt always worn. To make a safe exit, thus prepared for descent, the wearer must jump upon a circle in the linen fabric which has been cut out and replaced, held by a soft gum. This gives way, and permits him to fall through, leaving a clean, round opening instead of a tear.

Glendale Laundry

These "ports" are located just beneath the aluminum petrol tanks, of which there are 81, each weighing 500 pounds and each containing 70 gallons. Sixteen of them are fixed and the remainder are called slip tanks. Should occasion require rapid ascent or immediate decrease of weight for flight, the slip tanks are released from their fastenings and drop on and through the holes.

The only light in the living quarters is that which filters through the green-painted linen, an uncanny and continual gloom or dusk. At night hand electric lights are used and when the watches are changed, every four hours, these lights are used to signal the approach of one of the crew along the walk should another member be coming from the opposite direction. There are no turn-outs on this narrow-gauge walk.

Amidships is the "dining hall" or "grand salon," or whatever a facetious officer may choose to call it. It is simply a widening out of the walk, the floor space at that point measuring about 10 by 15 feet. Here there are six hinged tables and a tiny washstand, also three tanks of distilled drinking water, each containing seventy gallons.

At mess time half of the crew off duty can squeeze into this space and eat their prepared and previously cooked food, buffet style. There are no chairs on the ship. Roasts, stews, and potatoes, a limited variety of vegetables, coffee or cocoa comprise the meals. They are heated when wanted on appliances attached to the engine exhaust pipes. Obviously there is no after-meal cigar or cigarette enjoyed aboard.

One can stand upright traversing the length of the ship except near the bow and stern, where the gas bags are nearer the bottom of the huge envelope. There are eighteen hydrogen gas compartments within the shell, with a capacity of 2,000,000 cubic feet. Forward and aft there is a long, perpendicular ladder, extending upward between bags and reaching to the roof. The observer is obliged to scale this narrow and wiggly aluminum affair whenever he wants to "take a shot" at the sun in making observation. I got half way up but the gas fumes, increased by the fact that the Blimp was being held to earth, forced me down precipitately in utter disregard to the dents made in the soles of my stockinged-feet by the sharp metal rounds of the ladder.

In the extreme stern, modern sanitary arrangements are arranged.

Hanging below the bag are four "gondolas," or cars, one under the bow; two, side by side, amidship, and one under the stern. The forward gondola contains the "bridge" and chart room and navigators' quarters, as well as the wireless room and forward engine.

The navigating and pilot room, about six feet wide and ten feet long, is the last word in completeness of navigation appliances. By means of speaking tubes and bells, all parts of the ship are controlled from this room. It is through this room that the ship is boarded from the ground, access above being via another aluminum ladder.

The two gondolas amidships, reached from the "envelope" by small ladders, each contain a single engine worked by two men. The after gondola has two engines and one propeller.

When the R-34 silently nosed her way on to the field at Mineola, there were comparatively few to receive her, the landing crew having been rushed 100 miles away to where it was believed she would be forced to land. She hovered around, however, with an almost human appearance of hesitancy, as though she were looking for a comfortable place to lie down. Finally, after circling a few times, coming lower by ejecting water ballast and through manipulation of her elevating and steering rudders, she slowed down near the spot chosen and heaved an anchor overboard, for all the world like the Leviathan coming to a stop in New York Bay. She then winched herself down to an elevation that permitted the ropes dangling from her to be grasped by a hastily collected "landing party" of more than three hundred men.

One feature of the mammoth airship that seemed to impress many of the thousands who saw her, was the peculiar silence which seemed to mark her departure. This silence, of course, did not apply to the throngs, but to the monster, as she gracefully and majestically raised her head and shipped swiftly upward and away into the night.

DUBLIN. — Six thousand dollars was computed the value of a husband, by the Pensions Commissioners, who awarded this sum as compensation to the widow of a policeman killed in a Sinn Fein riot.

31,000 Miles on an Inch of Rubber

Worn down only an inch after 31,000 miles of heavy service—this remarkable record of one Goodrich De Luxe Truck Tire on the right front wheel of one of the trucks of the Blinn Lumber Company, Los Angeles, testifies forcefully to the lasting toughness of the Goodrich rubber compound and the unusual economies that result therefrom.

As in this instance, De Luxe Tires are slashing truck and tire upkeep costs everywhere throughout Southern California.

With more rubber available for wear, it is but natural that De Luxe Tires will cut your tire upkeep. Try them!

which must be carried because our schools are free schools and do not yield an income. On this basis, therefore, the per capita debt is $26.

In Los Angeles the per capita indebtedness is approximately $110 for the public utilities were acquired at such enormous expense they have never become self-supporting in spite of the rosy promises of their promoters. This is the reason why Los Angeles is so eager to sell water and power and to extend her taxable territory. Also, the Los Angeles Public Utilities Department has announced that water rates are too low there and that an increase must be made as soon as the law will permit, which will be next April.

Great bodies move slowly. Los Angeles has had fine dreams and has planned herself on her vision as though the dreams had actually materialized. For years she has been talking about selling electric power. As far back as 1912 when the city of Glendale was about to make a contract with the Pacific Light & Power Company, the city of Los Angeles sent a delegation to a meeting of the Board of Trustees, headed by the Chairman of Public Utilities and including City Engineer Scattergood, to try to induce Glendale to make a temporary lease of light and power until the city of Los Angeles should be able, in the course of a few months, to supply our city with that service. The trustees did not accept the suggestion, but made a contract with the Pacific Light & Power Company for five years in the face of severe criticism on the part of some residents for turning down the Los Angeles proposition. When the five-year contract expired the city of Los Angeles was no more ready to furnish power than she had been before.

Sometime Glendale will own her public utilities outright and then she will be in a position to make very low rates. Meantime she may acquire other public utilities—a gas plant, for instance, which will be paid for in the same way and eventually become an asset which will yield an income for the support of the city government. All this would "go glimmering" if Glendale should sometime decide to annex to Los Angeles for the purpose of helping Los Angeles carry her huge debt. Philanthropy alone would have to be the motive because we now have or can purchase with our own resources everything that Los Angeles could give us without investing in any Los Angeles dead horses, losing our identity and becoming perfectly helpless, in the hands of a big municipal corporation.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO SELL

To Whom It May Concern:—
Notice is hereby given that five (5) days after the recording of this notice of intention to sell that I will sell the furniture, fixtures and stock of merchandise belonging to me now located at 1032 South Brand Boulevard, Glendale, California.

That the stock of merchandise consists principally of Groceries.

That the name and address of the vendee is Albert F. Webster, 208 W. Elk Avenue, Glendale, California.

That the name of the vendor is Albert V. Marcellus, whose address is 5325 Lemon Grove Avenue, Los Angeles, California.

That on the 21st day of July, 1919, the entire purchase price of the sale will be paid by the Vendee to the Vendor, the transaction to take place at the Glendale National Bank of Glendale, California.

Witness my hand this 15th day of July, 1919.

FRENCH FAVOR SMALLER ARMY

(By United Press)
PARIS. (By Mail)—How large a standing army will France maintain after the peace settlement?

Before the war France had a standing army of about 800,000 men. This army consisted of three classes of 200,000 men each and of a professional army of colonial troops numbering about 200,000. The maintenance of this force called for three years obligatory service on the part of every Frenchman.

It is the reduction of this long term of service that most interests the public. The "Opinion," a semi-official military paper, recently printed the future needs as seen by a military critic. This writer estimates that a force of 200,000 will suffice for the Army on the Rhine, which he regards as the most important obligation, and for the policing of Morocco. Though he sets no definite figure for the troops needed in the Near East and in the home garrisons, he arrives at the interesting conclusion that an army of 400,000 during the winter months and of 600,000 during the summer will be plentiful.

As the colonial army of professional soldiers will continue to approximate 200,000, the writer points out that fifteen months' service on the part of the home classes will give a minimum strength of 400,000. This critic proposes that the classes be called up each spring and kept in service until the autumn of the following year. Fifteen months' service would give sufficient time for real training and furnish a large army during the summer months when the danger is greatest and when the maintenance of an army causes the least hardship both on the soldiers and the state.
